

toddler studio:

Meet the Curators

Today we met two of the Carter's curators! Curators learn about, care for, and display the artworks we visit in museum galleries. Are you feeling curious about your world? Let's work together on our own toddler-friendly family research projects!

CHOOSING:

What's your family's area of interest? If your toddler is fond of ducks, trucks, or family photos, start there.

PLAYING:

Time to play and learn! Spend a few days exploring your topic in different ways:

Read fiction and nonfiction books

Listen to music (try at least three different genres!)

Create themed sensory bins full of toys and tools

Explore the Carter for related artworks

Create drawings, paintings, sculptures, or stories

Don't forget to save and share what you've learned using #CarterArt! Create a memory book, write notes, take pictures, or invite your loved ones to a virtual show-and-tell!

books

Where Wonder Grows by Xelena Gonzalez and Adriana M. Garcia

What Color is My Hijab? by Hudda Ibrahim, illustrated by Meenal Patel

Ten Ways to Hear Snow by Cathy Camper, illustrated by Kenard Pak

Outside, Inside by LeUyen Pham

When We Were Alone by David A. Robertson and Julie Flett

I Like Berries, Do You? by Marjorie Pitzer